Leadership Trait of the Week

May 4th – May 8th

“Citizenship”

Chelsea Persad

“Student of the Week”

Citizenship - the desire to be a committed, loyal member of and support one’s school, community, and country.

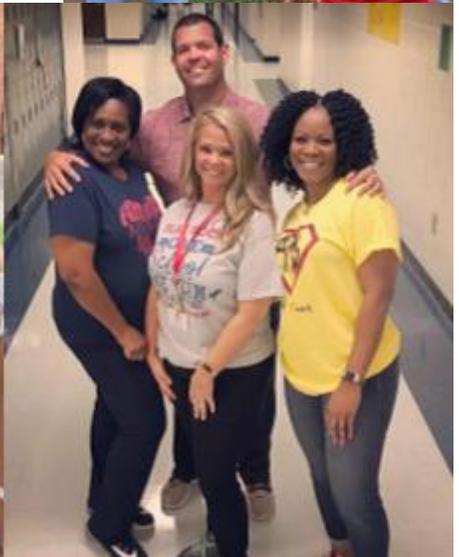

This student’s display of Patriotism is displayed to her local and global community by the many community outreach projects that she works tirelessly on. She is a member of the Beta Club however, she works on projects that extend past the school day and even school year! She normally would assist with teacher clean-up in May, summer bridge in June, and soaring eagle camp in July. Whereas her service is a true representation of what a true soon to be Sandy Creek Patriot looks like. Her willingness to assist will be missed at the Rock, but we know that she will continue to serve the community. We are proud to name Chelsea Persad as the student of the week.

In honor of National Teacher Appreciation week, we want to thank you for your nonstop commitment to our students. Through all of the weirdness that we've experienced in the last 7 weeks, your desire to remain connected to your students during this stressful time is a testament to what it really means to be an educator. The online meetings, countless emails with students & parents, hosting distance learning classrooms and many other substitutions that you have embraced quickly and without hesitation demonstrate your willingness to continue to show up and make a difference. Your determination to help our students achieve success does not go unnoticed. Thank you for being the amazing educators you all are!

Teaching is the greatest act of optimism

Team 7A Scavenger Hunt

Congratulations to Maddy Lohr and Kemery Oparah for winning the 7A Science-Based Live Scavenger Hunt. After choosing their teams, students joined Ms. Summa's Zoom to participate in small groups to solve science clues and to locate common household items. The winners of each group had a playoff game with their families to solve an even harder set of clues and find more items in their house and from outside. It was a tough race and both students were able to get help from members of their family. "It was a great way to feel connected to the students and I had a blast watching them think and scramble to get items. Way to go all of my students who played!" - Ms. Summa
